rive at Grafton at 1:30 P. M.; and Baltimore at 3:30 A. M., next morning.

Passengers taking this route will save both in time, distance and comfort, and will not be subjected to frequent changes of cars, and the risk of missing connections, as other routes.

This route affords the opportunity to passengers to stop on business, or to visit at Harper's Ferry, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, for the same price they would have to pay to New York alone, by more northern routes.

Baggage checked through to Baltimore, Philadelphia, Washington City and New York.

FREIGHTS. The large and spacious cars for the transportation of stock, under the charge of the most experienced, careful, and best qualified agents, together, with the great facility for resting, and procuring feed from the producer at low rates, offers greater inducement to shippers than any other route. Besides, shippers who employ this route will be certain of transportation at all seasons of the year, and not exposed to serious and heavy losses, consequent upon delay from snow andice which so often interupts the transportation over other roads. All kinds of freight carried as low and as quick as by any other road.

BY A LADY.

To the chivalrous author of "Nothing to Wear."
Who bas galeed such a great notoriety
For his friendly regard and solicitous care
Of the fair ones of New York society.
I humbly beg leave these few lines to address,
In the name of the ladies, and thereby express
The thauks that they all most undoubtedly owe
To the one who such trouble and thought can bestow, in presenting the claims they have for a share,
Of the public regard, when they've nothing to wear.
There are some who do need its prompt aid I confess,

There are some who do not be prompted.

Who imagine they ne'er have a sullable dress,
(Though they are by far the least part of society
And of all styles of dresses bave an endless variety;)
So, when asked to dinner, or party, or ball,
Of what they're to wear have to idea at all,
And are generally plunged in the deepest despair,
And think they have nothing whatover to wear,
But then, these examples are so very rare,
That seldom they're met with, except here and there,
The gentleman's meaness is getting preposterous,
Though they try to be thought in their wishes to foste

Though they try to be thought in their wishes to foster us;
And while in one way they our wants do embrace
They're constantly hiaming our extravigance,
They tell us we're vangels, they call in s'dear creatures,
Our figures they praise, and our style and our features.
When they tell is we look so enchanting in dress,
It is strange that we carry it to an excess?
Why, ever proud man, the lord of creation,
Is sometimes upset by a slight observation;
Is and often its mind undergoes a RELACHE.
If a lady is heard once to praise his musiache;
Vet these lordly creatures are loadly bewailing,
In ladies, some triding lancy or falling.
At one time they'll praise, at souther profess
That they've a decided aversion to dress—
First fauter, then scold us, then solemnly say
That all women's taste run in only one way.
Thus they drive us at last to the brink of despair
And then manningly ask as what Eve had to wear;
But forget, for the past is so very remote,
That Adam existed without hay cost.
Oh, when will they learn of themselves to take care!
And let us alone about what we should wear?
For it must be seen clearly, and by all be confessed.
To arrange our own business we ladies know best.
About their oplinion we don't care a groat,
But wish, ere they're ready to pull out the mote But wish, ere they're ready to pull out the mote They perceive in our eyes, they important would deem From their own blinded vision to cast out the beam.

Oh, gentlemen, gentlemen, what would you say if matters should just be turned round to ther way; if ladies should take on themselves the dominion. And on your style of dress dare to give an opinion? Would you meekly submit? Not I think you'll allow That you'd r iss up at once a most terrible row, And with an inach ado would sharply declare Yourselves the best judgesto what you should wear. Then, wherefore should you attempt to make fan Andsase us so much about what we have on? Why should you, let meak, from your dignity stoop. To take so everely about a frail hood? Why should you from your majesty so far descend As our pet style of dress to attempt to amend? Why all the time putils injeveres and somets. Condescending to notice the size of our bounets? Or sometimes appear in such dreadful distress if we chance to mave on an extravagant dress? Why should you, who have styled yourselves lords of creation. Come so very tardown from your high lordly station? I very well know what the answer will be You'll make to these questions, you'll say, why should way.

The money we toll for so hard every day,
Give up to be waisted on show and display?
Why should we be obliged to pass half of our lives
In work for our extravagant daughters and wives?
Why all withen or dearly gained earnings to spend,
Without any effect to make an amend?

Has your meanness, then, such an ascendancy gained, Has your meanness, then, such an ascendarry gained, And your selft-sucess such a perfection attained. That you really, at last, have been brought to deny. The small sum that pleasure to us can supply? You can bad do a perfect more on yourselves than you do Your cravats for the morning are green, black or blue; For a bad or a party you always delight. To have them if possible, spoiless and white; For marning receptions your gloves, I've oft seen. Are delicate blac, or faint shade of green; Sometines they're straw-colored, and often, 'tistrue, They're very deep yellow, or sight that of blue, While, for a large ball, to be worn by gaslight, You persist almost always in having them white While, for a large ball, to be worn by gaslight,
You persist almost always in having them white
The waistcoats in which to your business you go
Are always dark-colored, or at least nearly so;
But for evening sthey're white, of Marseilles or satins,
And embroidered in rich georgeous patterns.
Then there are your coats, the number's no less;
They're of different colors, they're frock coat and dress;
Your elaborate shirt bosoms, with sittches and hems,
With studs and sleeve buttons of gold and of gems;
Your neally cut whiskers, your twisted nustacebe
Your fine curled hair; but I must say, Alas!
For the hours you give to such iolites as these Might better be passed in your learning to please
The spendhrifts you call us, or in letting us know
The worth of the money you design to bestow.

And what shall I say now about your fair Flora? And what shall I say now about your fair Flora? I fear that If really you were her adoror.
And had fixed your affections upon such creature Whate'er her perfections in form or in feature, I on either had seen very little oi life, (ir else you were rather hard up for a wife; For any young lady well bred or well born, The very idea of such conduct would scorn, Or would try, at the least, whate'er she might fee her thoughts or vexation allke to conceal. A second Xandippe she was, to express Such a rage, when you simply but hinded dress 'Tis well for our sex, and society, too, That ladies like her are reduced to a few. 'Tis true in some things we each other resemble In which, I well know, 'tis no use to dissemble; For all can observe, at a very slight glance, For all can observe, at a very slight glance, That our hoops have attained a tremendous expanse; But though on this point I have done with resistance; One thing I will say—they keep men at a distance.

But I sek not to prove that our sex is quite free But I seek not to prove that our sex is quite free From the faults that the men say in us they do see. Oh no! what we're blamed for, too often is true, And the follies we yield to, i know, are not few; But when they complain of us. do they intend by that means to tuch us our faults to amond? No, no, such kind motives are only pretence; 'Tis to justify meanines at our expense. When, when will they te are our virtues to praise And cease to lament o'er the wrongs of our ways? And the shadow rests on them, 'tis nesless to grieve.

Ab, gentlemen, if you so very well know
How to train ladies up in the way they should go
Why don't you begin the example to give?
Your reproof we should then more kindly receive,
Aid you'd find that, without more ado, we'd surrender,
And gratefully thank our patient amender.
But, ah! you slou't set about this the right way,
When you tell us to cease our walks in Broadway
When you say that the money we spend upon dress
Would be beiter employed in relieving distress;
When, in order our fondess for fashion to cure,
You sneeringly tell as to visit the poor,
You farget, while you're smoking some costly cigar
That pernaps the luxurious weed may debar
Some pour hungry wretch from a morsal of bread
Or a first to warm his cold, comfortless shed.
You farget, while your glasses nightly o'erflow,
With the ruby red current of Port or Bordeaux;
Or while your wine cellers do plenty contain
Of Maderia and Sherry, of Hock and Champagne;
That some hungry creature might to health be restored,
By the excess of food that is apread o'er your board,
And the hards of the wretched be filled with delight,
If, like the poor widow, you'd throw in your mite. Ab. gentlemen, if you so very well know If, like the poor widow, you'd throw in your mit-And then your club dinners, where thoughtiess and rash You squauder, unthinking, immense sums of cash. Thus your time and your money alike take to wings, And you find, soon or late, the remorse conscient brings.

Oh, then, ere you blame us for faults we possess. Ere you try the weak points in our lives to repress Ere you laugh at our whins, ere our failings you e Ere our foolishness, worldliness, weakness you moon, think, when we meet again in the next world Where the secrets of hearts shall all be unfurl'd, That it will be found out, when too late for rep. From the New York Express Ecclesiastical Divisions Tending to Political Disunion. Another Bank Suspension.—Closing of the Doors of the Citizens' Bank—Illness

The union of these States is, it may be presumed, something more than a mere political union, or a union based upon the material interests of amidst the warring of men's passions, and the bitter contentions of partisan warfare and section-rived. bitter contentions of partisan warfare and sectional strife, which really and truly bind us together in common brotherhood. In this country, it is true, we have uo established Church, but, God be thauked, split up as we may be in a hundred different sects, we have an Established Religion—and a common Bible. All the incalculations of that Bible, it is superfluous to say, are peculiarly favorable to the unity and harmony of such a nation and such a people as ours. "Love one another," is an injunction scattered all over its inspired pages, and it is only by a dutiful observance of pages, and it is only by a dutiful observance of the high obligations which the Divine law inposes upon us, nationally and individually, that we can hope to apply, with truth, to our social and political Union, the words of the sweet singer of Is-Truth to all men.

The early fathers of the Republic were Godfearing as well as tyrant hating men. While fighting for freedom and independence, they never forgot that "God reigneth." They never thought about fighting one another, as some of their de scendants do, "on Christian principles." Presby terians North never dreamed of drawing their sword on Presbyterians South. The New England Puritan could march shoulder to shoulder in the good cause with the cavalier of Virginia and the Carolinas. There was, relatively and proportion ately, a good deal more slavery in the Colonies then than there is in the States now—but who ever thought of subordinating his Presbyterianism or pelled them to suspend for the present the opera his Methodism to considerations that had only to do with that or any other condition of human soci-

But the purer days of the Republic have passed away, and a new order of things, and a new order of men have succeeded. One set of "Christians" come together at Clevelind, not to "love" but to "hate one another." Their Scripture read ing and practice arc—"Behold how good a thing it is brethren, to dwell together," not in unity, but in heartburnings and strifes-in party con tentions, and personal revilings—in sectional strife, and political excitements. The Richmond seceders, it is true, look to a re-union with the Old School brethren, North, to make up for the loss of the Cleveland Abolition brethren, but when the time comes for the ed in violent outbreak, or forcible demo overture, we fear that the Northern Old School men will be found quite as sectional, and quite as repugnant to affiliation with "slaveholders" as the New School anti-slaveryites are—so that the New School Presbyterianism, on the other side of the Potomac, may as well make up its mind, first as last, to get on without any sort of aid and comfort from the North. At all events-such are the signs of the times.

But this is not all. The same electric flash that tells that the Southern Presbyterians have resolved to cut loose from the abolitionised Pres. ble in a child of a dozen years, as well as a spirit of despotism that would be more naturally exbyterian Church North, announces that the Bap- ercised in a country where the cannons of the tist Central Association of Georgia, a very re-spectable and influential body of Christians there in view of the infusion of abolitionism into the Anierican Tract Society, North, reccommend the withholding of patronage from that Society; also, to raise no more funds for Northern Colporteurs, in any way connected with that oryanization, until it Mary Anu Gibbons, who was also far above American Tract Society, North, reccommend the go back to its original situation on the subject of slavery. If the Hindoos, or the Polynesians, or the Bur mese, whose spiritual interests cost us some millions annually, were to be transported to the United States, and see "how these Christians love one another," we may reasonably conclude that him. A MONUMENT TO FRANKLIN .- The Philadel phia Daily News, in referring to a recent article in the States, in regard to a monument to Franklin, says: "What has become of the Frank lin monument in our city? There certainly should be some mark for the grave of the grent philosopher, to say nothing clse, in the city of his adoption. At the present time, it is only distinguished by a slab which lies upon the sod which covers it. Hundreds of people-citzens and strangers-visit this grave in the course of the year, and many in order to reach it are obliged to scale the high wall which encloses the ground. Would it not be well, at least, to have an opening in the wall and an iron railing in troduced? People could then see the restingplace of Franklin, while they stood upon the payement in Arch street. We trust that this may not only be done, but that a fitting monument will one of these days be reared upon the

Mr. Lit tlejohn. Unfortunately, he happened not to be at home, and they drove on to the residence of the Catholic priest, in Church street, intending, after the Ccremony there, to return to Mr. Lit tlejohu's residence. While in the presence of the Romish Priest, he asked the woman if she belong ed to his Church?—and she said "No!"—that she "was a Protestant." He then inquired if she did not intend to adopt the religion of her husband, and go to his Church?" She answered that she did not." He then asked if she "did not intend to bring her children to his Church for haptism. and allow them to be brought up in that faith?' She said she "had no children and might not have, and if she did, she could make no plenges on that subject." Upon which the Priest brought his hand with great force upon his book and said roughly-"Connolly-why don't you put away this woman and get one of your own Church. I will not marry you, and I forbid you going to a Protestant to be married. I forbid it, on pain of exommunication—and you, who have come in this company, if one of you go to see these per sons married by a Protestant, I will excommuni cate you!" The bride and groom then turned to depart, followed by one of their male friends, the only one that was not afraid of his soul's salva tion under the ire of his ghostly father. THOMAS M. GREEN, Editor. FRIDAY,.....SEPT 18, 1857

III is not frequently that we have met with anything of which to approve in the policy of John Tyler, and it therefore gives us all the more pleasure occasionally to recur to some acts of his administration and subsequent career which stand out in both relief from the course generally pur sued by him. Oue of the acts of his administra tion of which we have always most cordially ap proved, and which at that time met, and now meets the approbation of all right thinking men is the "Ashburton treaty," providing for the sus taining of a fleet of eighty guns on the Coast of Africa for the purpose of suppressing the slave trade. This treaty was denounced in the late Southern Commercial Convention at Knoxville, which decided to memoralize Congress for the repeal of so much of the aforesaid treaty as provided for the maintenance of the said flect for the suppression of this traffic-so abominable in the sight of Christian people. The Convention tounded its arguments for the repeal of this portion of the treaty upon the assumption that the existence of such a contract could not be other, wise regarded than as a gratuitous insutt and discourtesy to the Southern States. The grounds upon which the objection was urged is far from tenable, as the Southern members of Congresvoted unanimously to declare the slave trade an act of piracy, and to punish all persons engaged in it as pirates. The Southern people have al ways been opposed to the traffic, and the slave State of Virginia was the first colony, many years hefore the war of Independence, to petition Great Britian for its suppression. If the traffic is to be looked upon as an act of piracy it is preferable that our own Government should be prepared to punish those of her citizens engaging in it, that to leave them to the mercies of Great Britain We regard the object of the memorialists as at endeavor to bring about the renewal of the slave trade, and hope that it will be frowned upon by all good men. It is a matter of congratulation to the South that Mr. Tyler has thus come prompt ly forward to defend his administration from the assault made upon it. Is it too much to expect that other gentlemen occupying prominent posi tions in the dominant party will in like manner risk some of their personal popularity by em platically rebuking the hair brained madness of these Southern fanatics? Below we give the let ter, which will be an interest ing one to men of all parties in Kentucky: From the Richmond Enquirer of Sep., 4

Mr. Tyler's Letter.

Messes. Editors: Although I have observed of ound silence in regard to all public political scussions since the close of my official residence nt Washington, yet it seems to me to be not only proper, but in some measure required of me to udiente an act of my Administration, for which posterity will hold me accountable, ugainst a blic attack made upon it. Such an occasio has occurred in the published debates of the re cent Commercial Convention at Knoxville, where in a member is stated to have declared the pro vision in the treaty of Washington, stipulating on the part of the United States for the mainte nance of a ficet of eighty guns for the suppres ion of the slave trade under the American flag, was an act of discourtesy and insult to the South as a reason for its abrogation. The declaration thus made seems to have met with the counteuance of a large majority of the Convention in the final vote upon the subject.

I propose to do no more, Messrs. Editors, than revive with the public a recollection of the inci dents which led to the incorporation of that pro vision in the treaty; and, having done so, I shall be content to leave the matter to the arbitrament of the proper tribunal.

I shall, however, he permitted to observe that the remarks reported to have fallen from members of the Convention, in debating the main subject, are so entirely variant from the popular sectimen: entertained throughout the Southern I believe, in 1842, as to occasion m Who, in 1842, even dreamed no little surprise. that there would be, as early as 1857, a proposi-tion seriously made to revive the slave trade? certainly entertained no such idea; nor did, I am quite sure, any one of the atile and patriotie tatesmen who were my constitutional advisers really thought, and often declared, that the outhern States were more opposed to the slave trade than any other portion of our people. They had voted with singular unanimity for the act of Congress which declared that all citizens of the United States engaging in that trade should be regarded, and if convicted, puni-hed as pirates. How it happens, then, that a provision introduc ed into a treaty to enforce a law for which the South had voted can be rightfully regarded as an insult to the South, I must say passes my com orehension. Certainly such an idea never entered nto my head or heart

My principal desire, however, is to call the at tention of the country, in brief, to the facts as they existed immediately antecedent to the treaty of Washington. The British Government had in sisted upon the right, in virtue of various treatie-with other nations, to visit ships on the coast of Africa, sailing under the American flug, for the purpose of ascertaining the true nationality of the ships. England had even ventured to put their claim into practice. This called forth strong remonstrances from Mr. STEVENSON, who was then our minister at London, and a most able argument in pamphlet form appeared soon after, from the pen of Gen. Cass, who was our minister at Paris. The onduct of our representatives at London and Paris in this particular was fully approved by the Administration, and in my annual message to Congress, I took decided ground against the claim preferred by Great Britain, and made the occa sion to say that as the United States Government was the first to declare the slave trade to be pi racy so far as the citizens of the United States were concerned, so it was fully able to enforce its own laws without the aid of British cruis

Thus the two Governments remained for time antagonized on the question. Great Britain arged that she meant no insults to the American ang, but that it was impossible, without a visit is the ship, to ascertain whether she helonged to the nation whose flag she bore, or had assumed that flag merely to deceive, thus seeking immunity under the American flag, when the versel, officers and crew, might be French, Portaguese, or Spanish, or of some other nation, intent on the clave trade, whose treaty engagements had given to Great Biltain the right of visit and search -Great Britain also urged on our Government out to be truly American, bound on a peaceful mercautile voyage, she would indemnify all loss and every damage sustained, as had been hon orably done in all preceeding cases. Lord Ash BURTON Was possessed of full power to negotiate ou this as on other subjects, and upon conference on this as on other subjects, and upon conference on this as on other subjects, and upon conference on Monday, for $5,020, to W. F. Jones, of Woodmessage, that the United States Government was able to enforce its own laws, and that I should ace to their enforcement, treaty or no treaty, un der the obligations of paramount duty. I then is one of the finest breeders in the United States suggested, by way of discharging this duty on my He is a noble animal. that we should keep upon the African coast fall under suspicion, but that we could not permit sold yesterday for $139 to the hundred. ican vessel occurred on the part of a British cruis-What has taken place since I will not under er. What h

I have nothing to do with what the Govern ment or the country may deem it proper to do in regard to that stipulation, but this I will venture to say, that, repeal when it pleases that provision of the treaty, it will still find it necessary, for the enforcement of the laws of the United States, as well as for the protection of the traffic of mer-chant vessels on that coast—a traffic every year increasing in value, and destined in the end to be of vast magnitude—to maintain a flect of at least eighty guns on the coast of Africa. It might be worthy of consideration by the next Commercial Convention whether, before they advise the eancelling of the provision in question, and deno it as an insult to the South, they should not first repeal the law relative to piracy in regard to the slave trade. Very respectfully, your ebedient servant, August 31, 1857. 'JOHN TYLER.

Our readers have not forgotten the excite ment produced at Memphis a few weeks ago by an attempt to remove a man named Isaae Bolton who is confined in jail there on a charge of mur The order for his removal came from a cir enit judge in another county, by a writ of habeau corpus, to determine whether Bolton's case was a The carrying out of this order by the sheriff was openly resisted by many of the citizens of Memphis, and for the safety of the rife of the prisoner it was abundoued. We cannot approve of the course of the citizens who arrayed miselves against the law, no matter whether i was right or wrong. The following development would indicate, however, that the apprehensions entertained by those who opposed Bolton's removal were not altogether unfounded:

ASTOUNDING DEVELOPMENTS.

To the Editors of the Memphis Eagle and Enquirer. GENTLEMEN: The following is a copy of a let ter received this day from some of the most prom ent citizens of Maysville, Kentucky, which you wilt please publish in your paper. As to the standing of the parties whose names are attached to this letter, I would say, from my own knowl edge, it is as good as any in the United States nearly all of them are the principal merchants end business men of that city, and known to many af the merchants of Memphis.

Respectfully, W. E. MILTON, Respectfully, W. E. MILTON, Chairman of Committee of Twenty-Five.

MAYSVILLE, KY., Sept. 4th, 1857. DEAR SIR: The peculiar circumstances which belong to the case of the "State of Tennessee vs. Isaac Bolton," form the apology we offer you or addressing you upon the subject.

The pour man who was so suddenly cut off by Bolton was our neighbor and townsman, and, so ar as we had ever known or heard, quiet, for searing, penceable, and inoffensive! The batch of witnesses so noislessly hunted up and trun-hipped from here, were also our fellow citizens or tellow countrymen, unfortunitely, and thus our town and we, in some sense, are personally interested in the trial. We, however, will no interfere further than is necessary to do justice to ourselves and discharge a duty we owe to our ellow citizens of Memphis. We write to you to pear our testimony against the witnesses lately uired here by the agents of the prisoner to visi vour city and swear in your courts. The majori ty of them are vagabands of well established bad characters, whom no judge or jury here would credit for a moment. The impossibility that they should know anything about the case, the secrecy with which they left here, and their own abomina ole characters, have inspired our whole commu nity with the helief that they have made this foray uoon your city for some dishonest purpose. For a day or two past, "Bolton's witnesses" have been the faughter of the whole town-everybody oncurring that "Thomson," the ageut who had 'procured' them, had deserved well of this city in taking such a crew of jail-birds away from here, provided only he would keep them away, and stay away with them himself. We regard it as and stay away with them himself. a singular occurrence that nobody here should be in possession of any facts tending to the detriment of the unfortunate deceased, or the advantage of his slayer, but a rabble of witnesses that would have disgraced Fallstaff's company. We believe this singularity was not accidental, but resulted from the congenial taste of the procur-er and the necessities of the defense. IF We would advise those who admire the fine arts to go to STEARNS & CLARKE'S NATIONAL AMBROTYPE GALLERY, where may be found some beautiful Oil Paintings and Portraits, as well as some fine Ambrotypes. Their rooms are newly furnished, are in a convenient part of the city, and easy of access. The dressing room attached, (expressly for the ladies,) is quite a novelty, and will be justly appreciated by the dear creatures for whose use it is intended. Ladies visiting their rooms will not be subjected to the annovance. (as heretofore) of meeting gentlemen, as there is a room fitted up for their exclusive use. Our elever friend Stearns is a master of his profession, and will superintend the operating department, while Charlie will be on hand at all times to make known the wants of visitors. The proprietors are both enterprising young men, and justly deserve the patronage of our citizens.

OUR TRADE WITH SWEDEN .- A corresponden of the Washington Union at Stockholm under date of August 15th, writes that only four Amercan vessels visited Swedish ports in the neighborhood of Stockholm, during the quarter ending the 30th June. Three of these vessels were loaded with cotton, two of which took on board full cargoes of iron. The value of iron exported from Stockholm, via Lubeck, to the United States, during the same period, was $17,636,80; and of goods imported into the same district, as a consideration for quiescence on our part in the matter, that if the vessel visited should turn $292,847,20. The crops promise to become very to the infant settlement of the Saints at good in Sweden.

Some years We reply, if the American party cannot be built up, what other party can you think of building up? There is no doubt in our mind. out that the main and leading principles of Americanism are more deeply rooted in a arger number of American hearts now than at ny previous time. This may seem and sound But let us look at facts and circum The last October election trauds in Philadelphia have opened the eyes of very many sober and reflecting citizens It was there shown onclusively, that the elections for the city were carried against the wishes of the intelligent citizens, by perjured voters upon forged naturaliza-tion papers, every one of whom was an ignorant, alten-born citizen. The Pennsylvanian, ing Locoloco paper, sounded the tocsin that if the Democratic party desires to continue to hold power, it must rid itself from its foreign in

In Northampton county, Mr. Buchanan ap oiuts a foreigner to a prominent responsible Con ulship, and yet the assembled Democracy dare not pass even a complimentary resolution on the bject in favor of the appointer or appointed fins is significant that even in the stronghold of he l'enth Legion all American teeling is not yet crushed ont. But we go still farther. It is also well known that the Jews are, or at least pre cend to be, greatly displeased with the Demo cratic treaty with Switzerland, by which they are excluded from that Republic. It is also a fact oeyond dispute, that in 1852 General Packer voted for the Maine Law at Harrisburg, containing a most stringent search clause. In private nversation a large number of our country citiens admit that most of our paupers and crimi nals are foreign-born. Confecting these and rave evidences enough that the leaven of Ameri auism is at work, silently yet powerfully. Add this state of things, the certainty that Kansas will be a Free State, which will dissolve Republi-canism, and the use of supporting the American party is very plain. This party is founded on prin ciples that must endure until Jefferson's wish be ulfilled, when an ocean of fire may roll between his and other countries.

But how can any person sincerely ask, of what ise is it to support the American party, when we inber that even in the midst of that violer storm last November, Mr. Fillmore received more han eighty two thousand votes in Pennsylvania is not this a good beginning to build a party op-on? Certainty since then nothing has transpired to orn g Americanism into odium. But every notable event that has taken place has caused the cople to look at the foreign element in omnest. The riots in New York city were excluricely a foreign affair. The riots in Washington-city were caused by a large number of natural-zed voters arranging themselves in a line at the place of voting in the Fourth Ward, and intimi-tating others lating others from depositing their ballots. Even i jury of twelve men, nine of whom were Demo rats, and three not belonging to the American party, stood five for acquittal and seven for a ver a.ct, thus showing that President Buchanan and Mayor Magruder, at whose instance the Marine were brought out and killed American citizens are not altogether blameless. The appointing o The appointing of two foreign Dutchmen as Consuls, one from East on, the other from Reading, is not altogether sat-

We think it is of great use to hold on to the American party, and to its principles we shall always ching. By a fair and honorable discussion, oy keeping this matter before the people from time to time, the day will not be far distant when Americanism will be the feading doctrine of the only true national Democracy. Unless we turn a deaf ear to the sentiments of Washington. Jefferson, Jackson, Clay and Webster among the dead, and prouounce the opinious of Mr. Buc muan and Judge Woodward, two good living Locotocos, as so much nonsense, Americanism must be of some value. These men have spoken and written earnestly on this subject, and shall we suppose them all to have been demented when they thus spoke and wrote? We that they felt what they expressed, and that the neted from honest and pure motives. Let us then no longer hear the useless question, of what use s it to labor for the American party. Let each and every friend of those principles go to work, not only until the next election, but for all time o come, uutil, as Mr. Buchauan said, foreign in luence may be driven from our shores. Le every man be consistent and persistent in the work, and the result will follow ere long. Work ou and work hard, the day of redemption is near

Very Late from Utah.

Elder Samuel Richards, of Utali, arrived in New York on Thursday evening, after the re markably short trip of twenty eight days from Great Salt Lake City. He brings dates from Utah to the 13th of August. 1le left Salt Lake City in company with four others. The harves in Utah this season had been remarkably abun dant. All the crops have yielded in larger measure than for some years previously. We clip the following summary of news from the New York Times:

No alarm existed in Salt Lake City in conse quence of the march of the United States military forces towards Utah. Authentic or detailed rticulars of the movements of the troops has or heen received up to the period of the depart are of this company; but rumors of the disposi tions of the Government had come to the ears of the Mormons with a sufficient degree of distinctness to cause them to appreciate the extent of the recent demonstration. They expressed them selves unable to understand the motives of the Government in dispatching a force against them; leclared that they intend duoharm to anybody diselaimed any intention of entering into a con dict, armed or otherwise, and simply asked "to b set alone." It was not apprehended that the troop would find any wrongs to redress, nor was it the Mormon purpose to place obstacles in the way or the performance of their duty. In other words, the ractes :-- and inclinations were ex

Just previous to the departure of Elder Rich ards, there were rumors of Indian disturbances in the immediate vicinity of Salt Lake City. On the day Mr. Richards eft, it was reported that the Indians were gath ering in force to revenge themselves upon the Saints, and an immediate attack was apprehended The Salt Lake people, however, were fully pre pared, and a conflict would be necessarily attend d with some serious consequences.

The present Mormon population of Utah is es insated by Elder Richards at 60,000. There have been some fluctuations in the population since the last census, but the arrivals have ex eveded the departures. The total population of the Territory, Gentile and Mormon, is $0,000.-At the next session of Congress a determined of fort will be made by the Mormons for the ad mission of Utah as a State, and the necessary pa pers are already prepared.

MELANCHULY ACCIDENT .- An unfortunate ac cident o curred vesterday morning, in East Mays-ville, whereby Mr. WM STILLWELL, one of the oldest and most respectable citizens of that place, was dangerously, if not fatally, injured.

He was attempting to empty a barrel of water from an outside door in the third story of his large Flouring Mill, when by some means he slip ped and fell to the ground, a distance of 25 or 30 eet-crushing one of his legs terribly, and also dislocating one of his shoulders. Medical aid was immediately called to his relief, and one of his legs was amputated. Mr. S., is over seventy years of age, and it is therefore very uncertain whether he can survive the terrible accident that has befallen him.

P. S. Mr. STILLWELL died at 8 o'clock, last evening, an event most sincerely lamented by all who knew him, and more especially by his near neighbors and friends. WILLARD'S PATENT PLANTER & SOWER.

PATENT PLANTER & SOWER.

This is an ingenius machine, for which letters patent were granted to Mr. Hozza William in May last. It was exhibited during the last season at several state Fairs, always commanding universal udmiration. Large quantities are now being manufactured for use during the coming spring, and it is believed that a machine that accompilishes so great a saving of labor, must at once come into general use. It is especially udapted for the South, and our enterprising planters will find it worthy of their attention. The machine is of about the size of an ordinury cart. The following description is from a late number of the United States Journal:

"To the agriculturist this is, undoubtedly, the most valuable patent that has been issued for many years. It is intended for sowing broadcast, covering and harrowing at the same time, for sowing in drills and also for planting in hills, and will accompilish either object as well as could possibly be done by hand. The grain is placed in cylinders, which are made to revolve with the motion of the wheels of the cart. As the holders rotate the grain passes out through the screens to the ground. The seed are evenly distributed and the machine may be regulated to sow any given amount to the uere with perfect accuracy. The grain is covered by the revolving harrow, which receives its motion, thus harrowing up the ground instead of matting it down, and tearing to places any stubble, sods und manure, und leaving them behind instead of drawing them together in bunches as with the common harrow. The holders can easily be taken off, and the revolving harrow used for mellowing and preparing the ground, which can be accomplished with it much more rapidly and efficiently than with a harrow constructed on uny other plun.

"For sowing in drills the hurrow is taken of and the guides, as seen in the engraving on the inclined board, are changed so us to make the seeds drop into the drills prepared by furrowers, attached just heald, constructed so as to hove the eight of the un
